DAY 14:
HOW OPPORTUNITY
REALLY WORKS

Watch: Watch today's short video. Pay attention to the question John asks and his perspective on the day's intentional action.

Think: What door of opportunity might currently be open to you? It can be big or small—that doesn't matter. Usually, the first door is small, and it may be open only a crack. Your job is to see it, and muster the courage to go through it. That may be only the first step leading to many other doors of opportunity.

Do: Identify an opportunity that could make it possible for you to add value to other people or make a difference. Then do one of three things today: 1) take a specific tangible step to go through the door, 2) do some work today to explore the possibility, and keep exploring it until you know it's not for you, or 3) dismiss that door and look for another one.

Tell: After you've taken a step through a door of opportunity, tell others about it. If you use social media, share using the hashtag #IntentionalLiving. You can also click to share today's big idea on social media:

Opportunity is a series of doors. We go through one to find the next one. The more doors we go through, the greater potential we have for making a difference.
