DAY 30:
TELL YOUR STORY

Watch: Watch today's short video. Pay attention to the question John asks and his perspective on the day's intentional action.

Think: You've taken a lot of actions and learned a lot of things about yourself in the last 30 days. What has made the greatest impact on others? What has added the most value? What has left the greatest impression on you? This is the story you need to tell to inspire others to follow in your footsteps and join you in making a difference.

Do: Go to the story tab on the website and decide how you will tell your story. Will you record a video telling the story? Will you write it out? Will you make an audio recording and post it so others can listen to it? Will you do a photo essay that tells the story? You decide. It doesn't have to be perfect. It just needs to be done, so you can become one of the million stories of significance. Your story may be the one that someone else needs to hear to get started on their significance journey. After you complete your story, take a couple minutes to complete the self-assessment again to evaluate how far you've come on your intentional living journey. Online Assessment

Tell: After you've told your story, tell others about it. Encourage them to take the 30-Day Journey, too, if they haven't already. If you use social media, share using the hashtag #IntentionalLiving. You can also click to share today's big idea on social media:

You need to share your significance story with the world.

That's your last act of significance in the 30-Day Journey. Don't miss it.
